FAN FODDER

So far this season the Pendleton and Walla Walla teams have played 18 games, the Bucks winning 10 and the Bears eight.

Both Leo McQuarry and Fred McKeen, Pendleton players released last week to make room for Bert Fitchner and D. Whitt have caught on with other teams, McQuarry joining Yakima and McKeen going to Walla Walla.

Cap Brown of the Walla Walla Bears will probably never play another game of ball and will be lucky if he is not a cripple for life. He has what is known as a floating cartilage of the knee. While walking in from the field to the bench before last, it slipped out of place and physicians have not yet been able to get it back. He is walking on crutches now with one knee bent.

The prettiest play of last week's series was pulled off Sunday afternoon in the eighth inning by George Naughton when he robbed Childers of what looked like a clean hit between first and second. It was a ground ball and he stabbed it by a pretty lunge, turned and whapped it to first in time to throw the runner out.

While the noise of the band and fans in the lucky seventh helped considerably in getting Leeper's goat, there were several other factors contributing. Leeper did a foolish thing in running his head off after two high fouls. It left him winded and tired and Ledell, prompt to see his condition, ordered his men to hit the first one over. They did. Naughton's theft of third base also helped along the demoralization.

Whitt is probably the fastest and surest outfielder in the league. His catch of Remmer's fly in the seventh Sunday P. M. was a remarkable one.

A CRISIS IN CONSERVATION.

It depends on the ruling of a federal district court in California, no authority exists at present for preserving natural resources owned by the government for any other than the enriching of land-grabbers. Petroleum lands title cannot even be set aside to provide fuel for the oil-burning warships of its own navy.

A great area of such lands in California, valued at an enormous sum, perhaps a full billion of dollars, which was withdrawn from entry by President Taft in 1909, must be surrendered to the exploitation of Standard Oil and other companies which have seized its wealth in spite of the order. To safeguard them for public uses and render the mineral laws of the United States by executive order, according to Judge M. T. Dooling of San Francisco.

Of course, everybody will hope that the point will not depend on the ruling of a local court. Everybody will hope for a different decision from the same question. For, of course, if mineral and other resources cannot be reserved for the government's own uses, they cannot be reserved under trusteeship for the benefit of the whole people. The lack of explicit provisions of law on the subject, however, shows again the need for embodying a sound and mandatory conservation policy in the statutes.

That a government should be estopped from devoting its own property to its own urgent needs and purposes is an absurdity. That "additional legislation" to prevent natural resources from "being wasted or absorbed by special or privileged interests," which the Baltimore platform promised, should be enacted at the earliest possible moment.

WHEN THE WORM TURNS.

Doesn't this, by Folger McKinsey, make you feel like whistling to the boy who is swinging on the garden gate and asking directions to the river road?

"There's an hour in early summer when the laurel is in bloom. And the sweet magnolias fragrance all the green world's pleasant room."

That you don't mind being foolish and turn back to boy 'from man—
When the fishin' worms are wrigglin' in the old tomato can!

"No matter how they twit you, you can laugh it by with scorn."

BRITISH TEAM OF POLO PLAYERS WHO WILL TRY TO LIFT THE CUP

MAJOR BARRETT.

JOHN TRAILL.

CAPT. CHEAPE.

CAPT. TOMPKINSON.

The make-up of the British polo team which will meet the Americans at Meadowbrook, Long Island, has been announced, and the names have not served to frighten the members of the home team. There has been much speculation as to whether or not the team is as strong as that of last year. Many dissensions arose just before the team sailed from England, and it was said that some of the best players were not selected by Lord Wimborne, the financial backer of the enterprise. Since he put up the money to prepare for an international match—he picked the members. If he loses there will be much criticism of his selections.

When the world is full of summer and the heart is full of morn—
That feelin' of conviction that there's wisdom in God's plan,
When the fishin' worms are wrigglin' in the old tomato can!"

CITY EATIN'.

A country man in a restaurant ordered roast lamb and the waiter bawled to the cook:

"One lamb!"
"Great Scott, mister!" cried the country man. "I cannot eat a hull lamb! Gimme some fried oysters instead."

"One fried oyster," bawled the waiter.

"Gee whiz, Mister, one fried oyster ain't going to be enough. Gimme a dozen of 'em. Durn these city eatin' places!"

Orpheum.

Wednesday only, the seventh page in the active life of "Dolly of the Dailies" featuring Mary Fuller. "On the Minute," two-part Selig, featuring Adele Lane and Wm. Sowell; there's a real thrill every moment throughout the time occupied by this two-part feature, which tells the story of the thwarting of a gang of unscrupulous politicians through the bravery and ingenuity of a girl stenographer in the office of the city mayor.

"The End of the Umbrella," Edison. The seventh of the "Dolly of the Dailies" series. Dolly gets permission to investigate an explosion of some water works; she finds a curious umbrella handle and has it put on a new umbrella. She gets a position as cashier in a nearby restaurant and keeps the umbrella by her. Finally "Natty Jim," a boarder walks off with it and by this means Dolly captures the fellow who blew up the works.

"Percy, the Lady-Killer," and "Romeo and Juliet," are two good Biograph farce comedies.

Pastime—Tuesday and Wednesday.
"A Leaf From the Past," will be the special feature; this is a two-part drama written by Shannon Fife, one of the most dramatic of the Lubin staff writers, and staged by Lloyd B. Carleton with a selected cast including Orma Hawley, Lilliet Leibel, Edwin Barbour and Edward J. Peil.

Cosy.

Bell and Bell made a big hit Sunday in their novelty dancing and ventriloquist act. Ray and De Ives have a fine singing and dancing act.

"The Rose Bush of Memories," two-reel Reliance; Marian Cooper and Courtenay Foote in a beautiful two-part drama. "His Enemy," a Princess with Muriel Ostriche and the Princess players in a pleasing story.

"Tang Torubles," Royal is another slap-bang comedy with some tango mixed in.

"Daughters of Men" at Alta Theater.
With a fine crowd of "Pendleton's Best," the excellent five-reel photoplay, "Daughters of Men," by Lubin, Pendleton at the Alta theater last night, and was given a fine reception by all. So attentive were the spectators that they sat spellbound to the soft strains of Professor Sharp's violin as the tale of the struggle of the poor working man was unfolded. Throughout the course of the production one could almost hear a pin drop, so still were the spectators.

The photography, acting, timing, and mounting of "The Daughters of Men," is up and far ahead of the standard set by the Lubin company in their big productions of recent showing and all these qualities were shown to good advantage through the Alta's faultless projection.

We could hardly hope to see a better modern production after viewing this very commendable specimen. "Daughters of Men" will be shown again tonight at 7, 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock. It is in five reels and will Republicans of Oregon Meet.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 9.—The election of a new chairman and secretary was the most important business confronting the meeting of the republican state central committee which is holding a re-organization meeting here today. The Rose Festival proved a magnet in bringing out the members and a representative from practically every one of the 34 counties was present. Charles H. Moores, present chairman of the committee, has declined to be a candidate for re-election. It is very probable that a statement urging all republicans to register so they may vote at the November election in an endeavor to wrest the governorship from the democrats, will be issued by the committee.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

FLUSH THE KIDNEYS AT ONCE WHEN BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, so it neutralizes the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.
